House Intelligence Committee to Hold Open Hearing on Threats to National Security

*Hearing Scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 2, in Room 2318
Rayburn House Office Building*

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence (HPSCI) will hold an open hearing on emerging threats to national security at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 2, in Room 2318 of the Rayburn House Office Building.

The hearing is designed to allow committee members to gain a better understanding of the threats that face the United States and its interests as it prepares to consider the president's annual budget request for the intelligence community.

Witnesses will discuss issues such as economic, military, multinational and non-state factors.

Witnesses scheduled to testify include:

Richard Perle, Resident Fellow, American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research; Former Chairman, Defense Policy Board

Dr. Gregory Treverton, Senior Policy Analyst, RAND Corporation; Former Vice Chairman, National Intelligence Council

Michael S. Swetnam, Chairman and CEO, Potomac Institute for Policy Studies; Advisor, Senate Select Committee on Intelligence

Additional witnesses to be named.
